Drawing on previous Sámi and Indigenous knowledges and research: How can we prepare autistic Sámi children and youth to thrive in an uncertain, manifold world?

Short description / Abstract:

We would like to discuss results from our previous and present research and personal experiences. We will also present the ongoing research project funded by the Norwegian Research Council- Sami experiences of autism. The panel aspires to explore what we can learn from each other – from different Indigenous perspectives but also cross-cultural teachings and learning. The languages of panel members will be Sámi and English.

Participants: Anne Lindblom, Bente Ovedie Skogvang, Grant Bruno, TC Waisman & Ellen Marit Oskal Gaup
